

April 10, 2015

Paushuize | Kromme Nieuwegracht 49 | 3512 HE | Utrecht

CID Symposium

Why some children thrive, and others don't

Program of the day

- |                     |  |
|---------------------|--|
| 10:00-10:30h | Welcome and registration  |
| 10:30-11:00         | The typical and atypical development of the social brainProf. Mark Johnson (London, UK)                             |
| 11:00-11:15h        | Longitudinal analysis of social brain developmentAnna van Duijvenvoorde (WP2)                                       |
| 11:15-11:30h        | Parallels between birdsong and human languageSita ter Haar (WP4)  |
| 11:30-12:00h        | Measuring behavioral regulation and social competence in childrenProf. Marinus van IJzendoorn (Leiden, Netherlands) |
| 12:00-12:15h        | Complex early life environment and behavioral inhibition in ratsRixt van der Veen (WP4)                             |
| 12:15-12:30h        | Longitudinal links between adolescent social anxiety symptoms and stress-reactivityStefanie Nelemans (WP3)          |
| 12:30-14:00h | LunchPoster session and 'Meet the expert'   |
| 14:00-14:30h        | Self control and the teen brain: arrested development or adaptive evolution?Prof. B.J. Casey                        |
| 14:30-14:45h        | Who pulls the strings? Challenging the adolescent brain with drugs and emotionsJanna Cousijn (WP1)                  |
| 14:45-15:00h        | Diffuse patterns of resting-state connectivity in children and adolescents with ADHDDienke Bos (WP1)                |
| 15:00h       | High tea  |